When TREK first started building bicycles in 1978, the competitive challenge was staggering. Over 200 manufacturers were offering bicycles in the upper end of the US market.

TREK wanted to do more than survive, and through commitment to building a better product have now become the name that sets the standard for excellence in the industry.

TREK has introduced sophisticated manufacturing techniques, incorporating space age materials in order to provide the finest quality bicycles available throughout the world.

Your riding style, size and performance requirements are just a few of the key considerations used when designing our bicycle.

In 1987, 1988 and 1989 independent subscriber studies conducted by Bicycling magazine rated TREK as the brand readers were most likely to buy. This level of acceptance comes from providing quality products and exceptional value that best suit the demanding criteria of knowledgeable cycling enthusiasts.

The geometry of all the frames is function-specific with frame sizes matching the rider's ergonomics. No detail on the specification has been overlooked with special emphasis being placed on comfort zones like saddles and grips.

The Matrix wheel, rim and tyre system has also been carefully developed and race-tested to ensure lightness, strength and durability both in function and finish.
